GOP sweeps county, state races

Kimball over incumbent Sheriff Lister

Republican James Kimball edged out two-term Democratic incumbent Chuck Lister Tuesday ending a hotly contested sheriff's race.

The final tally had Kimball on top with a total of 7,969 votes or 52 percent. Lister, meanwhile, had 7,321 votes or 47 percent.

"We expected our major strength to come from the rural areas, but the figures showed we also got good support from the cities," Kimball said.

Kimball's wife Linda said, "It was all worth it. It's been fun."

Kimball said the first thing he intends to do in office is swear in new officers. Another thing is to sit down and discuss the philosophy of the sheriff's office.

He also said he wants to use more state police air surveillance as an aid in locating marijuana patches.

Among Kimball's campaign promises were that he would be a full time and more visible sheriff.

He also promised to improve rural patrols, attend the Police Training Institute, improve services to all county residents and expand county educational and awareness programs for youth and adults.

Lister could not be reached for comment.

In other local elections, 15-year-county-clerk-employee Betty Coffrin topped Democratic opponent Vickie Christman 9,157 to 5,859 in the race for county clerk.

Republican W.F. "Bill" Grimes beat out Democratic Olga Durham in the race for county treasurer 8,181 to 6,857.

Republican Rita Garma took the circuit court judge office over Democrat Paul Manion 7,761 to 6,659.

Victory places Big Jim back for fourth term

CHICAGO (AP)—Gov. James R. Thompson defeated challenger Adlai Stevenson on Tuesday, winning an unprecedented fourth term with a decisive victory over the man who nearly upset him in 1982.

"The people of Illinois have spoken," Stevenson said in conceding the race shortly over 11 p.m. "I accept their verdict. I wish the governor and the people of Illinois well."

With 25 percent of the precincts reporting, Thompson had 393,235 votes or 58 percent, and Stevenson had 248,492 votes, or 36 percent.

In Coles County Thompson received 8,474 votes or 57 percent or 57 percent, and Stevenson had 5,473 votes or 36 percent.

Republican Thompson edged Stevenson four years ago by the closest margin ever in an Illinois governor's race—5,074 votes—and the bitterness of that earlier race surfaced throughout the 1986 campaign.

Stevenson was running on the Illinois Solidarity Party ticket after renouncing the Democratic nomination for governor rather than running with two supporters of Lyndon LaRouche who won primary victories.

The gubernatorial slot on the Democratic ticket, which listed "no candidate" for governor, received 35,819 votes, or 5 percent.

National chapter disbands Phi Sigma Kappa

By STEVE SMITH
Campus editor

In what appears to be a final set of sanctions and disciplinary actions, the national chapter of Phi Sigma Kappa has withdrawn the charter from Eastern's chapter Tuesday.

With university agreement, Phi Sigma Kappa lost its charter following the national chapter's investigation into a "Pimp and Whore" theme party Oct. 1.

Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity members have decided to wear black armbands to mourn the loss of their charter. Fraternity President Kevin Hextell said members may wear the armbands for the remainder of the semester.

In a statement released Tuesday, university officials said the local chapter of Phi Sigma Kappa may be reestablished at Eastern after a "reasonable period of time."

Also included in the statement, the university revealed the results of a judicial hearing naming disciplinary actions on several students.

Glenn Williams, Eastern's vice president for student affairs, said in the statement, "The penalties assessed against individual students are the recommendations of the Judicial Board after holding hearings and investigating the case (Oct. 22)."

"These recommendations have been reviewed and approved by the university administration," Williams added.

Although the names of those in the judicial hearing are confidential because of university policy, the results of the hearing revealed that one student has been indefinitely suspended from Eastern and four students placed on final disciplinary probation.

Final disciplinary probation means any further violation of Eastern's student conduct code will result in immediate suspension from the university, Williams said.

One student also received a reprimand and cases against three others were dismissed, he said.

"Again these actions were taken after careful investigation of the circumstances," Williams said in the statement, "and in the case of the fraternity, after consultation with the national office of Phi Sigma Kappa (in Indianapolis, Ind.)."

At a Phi Sigma Kappa-sponsored press conference Tuesday, fraternity members aired their views of the sanctions.

Peter Polovina, the fraternity's vice president, said, "The severity (of the punishments) is outlandish. Before the national chapter revoked our charter, the university practically asked (See NATIONAL, page 9)

U.S. envoy expelled by Iranians

ANICOSIA, Cyprus—The speaker of Iran's Parliament said today that his government arrested and then expelled a special envoy sent to Iran by President Reagan, the official Iranian news agency reported.

The Islamic Republic News Agency identified the special envoy as former National Security Adviser Robert McFarlane. The agency did not specify when the reported expulsion took place.

At McFarlane's office at the Center for Strategic and International Studies in Washington, an aide said the former White House official would have no comment on the subject.

There were published reports in the Middle East that American hostage David Jacobsen was freed Sunday as a result of negotiations between the United States and Iran.

Asked about a possible role by Syria or Iran in the release of hostages, Terry Waite told a news conference, "I don't want to comment on the political dynamics."

Mercenary asks for compassion

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP)—A captured American mercenary said Tuesday he would ask the Nicaraguan government to show compassion if he is found guilty by a revolutionary court of terrorism and other crimes against the state.

Eugene Hasenfus, 45, of Marinette, Wis., made the statement while being questioned by the prosecution and then his chief defense attorney in the afternoon session of the Sandinista People's Tribunal.

U.S. and Soviets to talk arms cuts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State George Shultz headed for Vienna on Tuesday with a team of U.S. arms control specialists to test Soviet attitudes on nuclear weapons cuts, human rights and terrorism after the Iceland summit.

U.S. officials steered clear of predicting how Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze

Near the end of the session, Hasenfus' Nicaraguan attorney Enrique Sotelo Borgen asked the cargo handler:

"If at the end of this trial you are to be found guilty and sentenced to prison, would you ask the Nicaragua government to be generous and show you compassion so you could return to your home and to your wife and small children?"

"Yes, I would," Hasenfus replied.

would respond to Shultz' agenda. But they said Shultz was prepared to set up negotiating committees to tackle the details of the latest U.S. proposals, which include a 50 percent reduction in long-range nuclear missiles by 1991.

The setting for the Shultz-Shevardnadze talks Wednesday and Thursday is a 35-nation review of the 1975 Helsinki agreement.

State, national elections led by incumbents

STEVE BEAMER / staff photographer

State Rep. Mike Weaver won his bid for re-election to the state's General Assembly. Weaver, a former Eastern marketing and management instructor, will enter his second term after beating Democrat Boyd Davis by nearly a three-to-one ratio.

Weaver, Woodyard cop easy wins

State Sen. Harry "Babe" Woodyard and State Rep. Mike Weaver, as expected, easily outdueled challengers Wednesday to win re-election to the state's General Assembly.

Weaver, a former Eastern marketing and management instructor, will enter his second term after beating Democrat Boyd Davis by nearly a three-to-one ratio. The final vote count in Weaver's favor was 11,143 to 3,860.

"We've taken a county organization with a lot of troubles and all the precinct committeemen pulled together," Weaver said. "And, it worked."

"I'm very tired and burned out, and I'm going to spend the next couple of days relaxing and picking up signs," he said.

Meanwhile, Woodyard outdistanced Democratic challenger Alan D. Holderfield by a similarly wide margin.

Woodyard, a Chrisman Republican with experience in the state's House, won with 9,569 votes compared to Holderfield's 5,505. Woodyard's winning margin translated to a 63 percent to 37 percent ratio.

Woodyard was the GOP's handpicked successor in 1984 to the senate seat vacated by former State Sen. Max Coffey. Since then, Woodyard has actively sought area grants and was a proponent for one of Eastern's capital project priorities, the construction of an annex to Coleman Hall.

Attempts to contact Woodyard at home late Tuesday were unsuccessful.

—Terry Gaschler contributed to this story.

Bruce easily maintains House seat

Incumbent Democrat Terry Bruce was swept to a second term in the U.S. House of Representatives Tuesday, beating Republican challenger Al Salvi by a more than two-to-one margin.

Bruce won 67 percent of the votes in the 19th Congressional District, soundly defeating Salvi's 33 percent. The vote totals were 10,085 to 4,957.

Bruce, 42, was elected to his first House term in 1984, beating

Republican incumbent Dan Crane, who had drawn national media attention over an affair with a Congressional page.

Before his election to Capitol Hill, Bruce had spent 14 years in the Illinois Senate.

During his first term in the House, Bruce has been a strong backer of increased funding for higher education. He also supports sanctions against South Africa.

Salvi, 26, campaigned on issues such as the national deficit, called for increased investment in South Africa, and criticized Bruce for what he called a "liberal" voting record.

An unmarried lawyer from Champaign, Salvi had hoped to garner a heavy student vote from the district, which encompasses the Eastern, the University of Illinois and several community colleges.

Dixon re-elected for second term in landslide race

CHICAGO (AP)—Democratic U.S. Sen. Alan Dixon won a second term in Tuesday's election, taking a 2-1 lead over Republican state Rep. Judy Koehler in early returns.

With 23 percent of the precincts reporting, Dixon had 471,659 votes or 69 percent and Koehler had 204,380 votes or 30 percent.

"I'm pleased to announce that my opponent, Judy Koehler, has just called and congratulated me on my election," said Dixon at his election-night headquarters in a Chicago hotel shortly after 10 p.m.

"I'm delighted, of course, to be a winner," he said. "If those figures hold, it would be the biggest victory in modern times for the U.S. Senate in this state."

"I've been fortunate and I'm going to knock on wood right now."

In her concession speech, Koehler said she looked forward "to campaigning again throughout the state of Illinois and talking about those conservative principles for which I stand."

Koehler, 45, a three-term state lawmaker from Henry, had hoped President Reagan's popularity would help launch an upset. A recurrent theme in her year-long campaign was her loyalty to the president.

In addition, Koehler's campaign manager earlier expressed their confidence that the LaRouchie-infected Democratic ticket would give her enough momentum to unseat Dixon.

Dixon, 59, of Belleville, has not lost an election in his 37-year political career. His triumph over Koehler marked his sixth statewide victory. In 1980, Dixon won his senate seat by more than 600,000 votes.

Einar V. Dyhrkopp, running on gubernatorial challenger Adlai Stevenson's Illinois Solidarity Party ticket, had 4,268 or 1 percent.

Dixon earlier stated that he sees farming, sanctioning South Africa's apartheid government, balancing the federal budget and upgrading domestic programs as the focal issues facing Congress this year.

Dixon has held public offices for 37 years, including police magistrate in his hometown of Belleville, seats in both houses of the Illinois General Assembly, Secretary of State and State Treasurer.

In response to the problems our nation's farmers are currently facing, Dixon said he believes these problems can be relieved without throwing the U.S. government deeper into debt.

Dixon, a member of the Senate agriculture, nutrition and forestry committee, said he voted to reduce the interest rates farmers pay on government loans. This plan mixes a complex formula of lower current interest rates and the market value of the farmer's products, making payments lighter.

In addition, Dixon, a member of the armed services committee, said he wants the armed services to strengthen themselves, but said the Pentagon's budget has grown to its highest levels since World War II.

In regards to anti-drug laws recently approved by the Senate as well as Dixon, he said they will concentrate on educating school children about drugs and stiffening penalties for possession and selling drugs. The laws also attempt to stop the narcotics flow into the country.

Incumbents, GOP win in Coles County election

By MIKE BURKE
News editor

Incumbent candidates and the Republican Party came out the big winners in Coles County during Tuesday's general election.

With one exception, every incumbent candidate running in county races retained his office. The sole exception came in the race for Coles County sheriff, in which Democratic incumbent Chuck Lister was upset by his Republican challenger, Jim Kimball, by 648 votes.

All other incumbents were successful in retaining their offices. Rep. Terry Bruce, D-Olney, was re-elected to the U.S. House of Representatives, Republican Harry "Babe" Woodyard was re-elected as a state senator and Republican Mike Weaver was re-elected as a state representative.

Analysis:

Mike Burke

Bruce defeated Al Salvi by 5,128 votes. Woodyard defeated Alan Holderfield by 4,064 votes and Boyd Davis lost to Weaver by 7,283 votes.

Overall, Bruce was the only area Democratic candidate to be successful in Tuesday's election. In addition to Republicans Woodyard, Weaver and Lister, Betty Coffrin was elected County Clerk and Bill Grimes was elected County Treasurer.

Republicans also swept all three of the contested County Board races. John Findley, Mark Hutti and Bob Saunders were elected to the board.

June McGown, Republican county chairman, was not totally surprised by Tuesday's near sweep.

"I knew we would do pretty well. I knew there would be a lot of close races. I was looking for some wins but I wasn't looking for a huge win," McGown said.

Bob Crowder, Democratic county chairman, said Coles County residents traditionally vote Republican.

"We figured they (final votes) would come out this way. Sure we are disappointed, but we are going to reorganize and get going again," Crowder said.

Crowder said the way gubernatorial candidate Adlai Stevenson handled the problem of having supporters of political extremist Lyndon LaRouche on the Democratic ticket played a key role in the strong Republican showing.

Stevenson won the Democratic primary and later opted for a third party candidacy, which basically did away with straight party voting in the election.

"Stevenson hurt the party downstate," Crowder said.

Crowder said he believed many Democrats crossed over and voted for Republicans because they were unhappy with the LaRouche situation.

Handball courts in bad need of repair

Editor:

After spending a number of years as a part of Eastern and often hearing individuals remark about our beautiful campus and excellent recreational facilities, I think it's necessary to pass along a question I've been asked. "How can a sports center such as Lantz gym contain such a deteriorated group of Handball/Racketball courts?" It was a good question and I had no reasonable answer. I did, however, consider the problem and can now understand the basis for such a question.

First, the courts have a problem with climate control. They are cold in the winter and hot in the summer coupled with no air circulation. Could the doors be left open at night so the stale air might leave?

Second, the courts have terrible lighting making it difficult to see the ball and swing a racket properly. Could the light bulbs be replaced more frequently than once or twice a year?

Third, the walls are breaking apart and have not been properly repaired for years. They are also painted with the wrong color. Could the walls actually be repaired and painted white which seems to be more logical than gray?

And last, what about the liability factor? These courts are not swept daily, the floorboards have nails backing out, and there in court five is a steel-cased thermostat extending from the back wall which doesn't even function. What a potential disaster!

My only conclusion is that Eastern has a significant investment that is rapidly diminishing in value and usefulness. And if that does not matter, let's remember that these courts are not only a recreational area but represent a classroom for a large group of students.

Think about it Eastern. Did you forget these courts?

Add/drops not perfect, but old system is worse

Although there are some problems with the current add/drop system, it is preferable to the old system and should be retained because it is the fairest possible for everyone concerned.

Members of the the Faculty Senate are currently meeting with the administration to discuss the possibility of returning to the old system of adding and dropping classes.

Under the current system, students drop a class by filling out a card. Overnight, the cards are counted and an appropriate number of seats in classes are listed as open the next day. Students could then wait in line to sign up for the vacated seat.

Under the old system, students added and dropped classes in the same line. This lead to the undesirable practice of students buying and selling seats in classes. One student would drop a class and the student waiting immediately behind him could add the class. According to reports, some students would pre-register as many as 30 hours in certain crowded classes, knowing they could sell those seats during the add/drops process.

The current system was adopted because of this problem. Unfortunately, this system tended to create other problems.

Instructors are complaining that the current system is inefficient because it takes two days to complete and keeps students out of classes and standing in line during a considerable portion of the first several days of classes each semester.

These are reasonable concerns. Students should spend as much time as possible in class. It is unfortunate that the first week of classes is considered "blow-off" time by many students.

But we can think of no other viable method of administering the add/drop system that is fair to all students.

All students should have an equal chance to enroll in classes. Students who buy seats, or even those who happen to be friends with someone who is dropping a class, should not have an advantage over other students.

Under the current system, all students have the equal opportunity to be the first one in line, if that's what they wish to do.

Standing in line in the early-morning hours isn't fun, but at least it's fair.

Champaign—land of orange preps

I've always hated U of I.

OK, it could stem from the fact that I wasn't accepted there. Maybe it's just me, but I find it hard to have any feeling for an institution that so blatantly rejected me as a teenager.

I mean, I'm not a bad person. Of course, it might have been that my grade point average at that time made me appear to be more of a derelict than the serious college student I've been trying so desperately to make myself out as.

But anyway, about this place: there's just too damn many students. I think enrollment was up to about one billion last time I checked. Oh, all right, maybe I exaggerated a bit—it was really only one half a billion students—not including commuters.

There are entire states—no, make that countries—that don't have that many people. And the scary thing is, they all look alike. It's preppy (soon-to-be yuppie) heaven.

The girls all have long hair, usually worn in a pony tail for daytime attire, accompanied with the ever-popular turtle-neck (never folded down) and the basic crew-neck sweater.

Holes in any part of the sweater, especially if it is worn out, or better yet, eaten by moths, only add to the fashion statement.

This ensemble can only be worn with properly faded Levis and non-descript gym shoes. You know, the white kind the cheerleaders in grade school wore. You can buy them at Wal-Mart although no one from the land of alligator shirts and daddy's credit cards will ever admit that. If it's cold, a down vest, which at some point belonged to an older brother or perhaps dad, is worn.

Oh, I almost forgot. The men? They look the same as the women except they have shorter hair.

Jean Wright

At all times, the look-alike droids must sport some form of their God-awful school colors—orange and blue. It may not be very evident, perhaps just a small Go Illini! button on the pocket of a backpack, but it's there.

With school colors like that, I'm amazed that enrollment remains so high. It's hard to imagine that more than 30 thousand people would purposely make themselves look like basketballs.

Just go to Champaign. Every store you enter is covered with the lousy color. I recently made the mistake of going to Champaign to shop. Walking through the mall, (the mall was orange, too, I might mention) I decided to look for a sweater. I guess it was the sign, "Buy one, get one free" that enticed me in in the first place.

Wrong move.

I walked in the store and to what did my wondering eyes appear? But a miniature saleslady and a wall full of orange. Every sweater as far as the eye could see was orange. So for the low, low price of only $19.99, you could get not one, but two delightful orange sweaters.

The saleslady said they couldn't keep them on the shelves. Probably because rational, non-U of I students came in and hurled them to the floor.

OK, so I only hurled few of them.

Probably the worst part of this huge mass of orange people is their undying egos and the belief that they are superior to every earthly being and even some unearthly beings.

I've had (notice the past tense) more than one friend tell me that the only reason anyone attends Eastern is because they weren't accepted at U of I. While, for me that may have been true at first—I've come to realize a few things.

Normal colleges don't have an enrollment larger than the population of Monaco, and normal college students don't dress to look like citrus fruits.

—Jean Wright is associate news editor and a regular columnist for The Daily Eastern News.

Freshman Dan Barrett exits a voting booth at the Student Union polling place Tuesday. Because only 400 of Eastern's 10,000 students voted in the last election, the Student Senate actively solicited student voters this week by phoning students and distributing leaflets.

City Council revises liquor code proposal

First-time violation worth $250

By CHRYSTAL PHILPOTT
City editor

Charleston's City Council put a curb bit on the mayor's chomping power at Tuesday's meeting.

The commissioners passed an amendment which gives the city liquor commissioner, Mayor Murray Choate, the power to fine up to $250 for a first-time liquor violation.

A second violation is punishable with up to a $500 fine. A third offense is punishable with up to a $1,000 fine.

The commissioners were originally scheduled to vote on an amendment which, if passed, would allow Choate the power to impose fines of up to $1,000 a violation by liquor license holders "at his sole discretion."

According to the previous ordinance, the mayor could only suspend or revoke licenses.

After a debate, which lasted about 45 minutes, the commissioners agreed against the wishes and vote of the mayor to limit the fine to $250 a violation.

The mayor opposed the amendment to the amendment with a curt "no." The other commissioners voted unanimously for it.

Once the amendment was amended, the five commissioners all voted to pass it.

During the discussion, Bruce Scism, public health and safety commissioner, said, "My concern is that a $1,000 can do a lot of damage and that the fine can exceed the violation.

"$1,000 is a lot of money," he said. "If the violation is that serious, the license should be suspended. "The $1,000 scares me."

Scism also said, "My concern is that there are some bars, maybe all the bars where a $1,000 fine could put them out of business."

Public Property Commissioner Richard Corbin agreed with Scism. "For a first time out, a $1000 is pretty high."

Choate was opposed to the idea however. "It's (assessing fines for liquor violations) a discretionary matter. I don't like the graduated scale. I think the fine has been watered down so much, it's so low it doesn't have any meaning," he said.

Choate said the $1,000 fine would be good for taking care of violations.

Scism said, "I think we can accomplish the same thing with a fine of lesser amount."

"It is stiff enough," Choate said "so liquor violators will look at it twice before they violate the law. A lesser amount wouldn't do that."

In addition, the commissioners also passed an amendment to an additional liquor code ordinance.

It allows evidence gathered in the case of a liquor license violation to be used over again in the event the violator appeals to the state liquor commission.

New position filled

Justice begins human resource post next semester

By SEAN O. HOGAN
Staff writer

A recently created director of human resources position at Eastern is being filled by the vice president of a Florida bank, said Verna Armstrong, vice president for administration and finance.

Drayton Justice, vice president of Hollywood Bank of Florida, will start in January, but will meet with his staff here in the meantime, Armstrong said.

Justice is replacing Ed Sautelle, former director of personnel and employee relations, who retired last December.

The human relations position resulted when the payroll and employee relations departments were combined, she said.

"He's a very experienced, competent person," Armstrong said. A seven-member selection committee narrowed down the original 250 applicants to three candidates. "He's by far the choice," Armstrong said of the final decision.

Justice, who formerly worked in the personnel department at the University of Toledo, will be responsible for staff development, union negotiations, administering civil service tests and overseeing the payroll and benefits for Eastern employees, Armstrong said.

Justice will be working under job specifications and no time-specified contract, which Armstrong said is common among university administrators. Armstrong would not comment on what his salary would be.

Since Sautelle left Dave Dean, director of administrative services, has run the human resources department, Armstrong said.

This week in the video lounge...

American Gigolo is about a special boy, Julian Kay played by Richard Gere. He is on the prowl, looking for a trick, companion, someone to please. He speaks several different languages and he might be a translator for the lonely wife of an executive. Lauren Hutton plays the dutiful, decent wife of a state senator. Slowly but irrevocably, Julian falls in love with her.

Who'd be crazy enough to trust WWII to a dozen of deadly cons? The Dirty Dozen is about a strike force of violent criminals involved in one of the most bizarre and difficult combat missions ever. Lee Marvin is U.S. Army Major John Reisman, whose job is training the prisoners. Some of the stars who make up the Dirty Dozen are Charles Bronson, Telly Savalas, and Donald Sutherland. Their job is to infiltrate a protected German retreat where the upper echelon of Generals go for rest and relaxation.

Faculty Senate hesitant about library tours

SEAN O. HOGAN
Staff writer

A Student Senate referendum calling for mandatory library tours is a good idea but is impractical, Faculty Senate members said Tuesday.

"It leaves out all the transfer students," said senate member Gary Foster. The referendum calls for a freshman-level class specifically teaching library use.

Instead, Faculty Senate members said orientation tours should more thoroughly explain library materials and services.

Some instructors take their classes to Booth Library before term papers and research papers are due. However, some Faculty Senate members said the tour guides are more confusing than helpful.

In other business, the administration has narrowed its search for a director of the physical plant down from 50 applicants to eight, said Verna Armstrong, vice president for administration and finance.

"All eight do seem to be viable candidates," she added.

Also, students will be able to pay tuition in installments starting next spring. Armstrong said a $20 fee will be applied to students paying on the installment plan.

Senate chairman Mary Wohlrabe said Eastern President Stanley Rives asked faculty members for their suggestions on Eastern's poor parking situation.

Wohlrabe reported that Rives said the idea of a multi-level parking garage is out of the question because of the cost. University property on Fourth Street and a basketball court across from Coleman Hall are spots officials are considering for additional parking spaces.

Raising parking fees and tickets would be the viable way to pay for parking expansion, some senate members said.

Students face drug charges

Two Eastern students will go on trial Wednesday for three felony counts of unlawful delivery of controlled substances.

Junior Peter Olujic and senior Sandra Lapicola have a joint class one felony charge of unlawful delivery of 10 to 30 grams of cocaine Aug. 8. Class one felonies may carry sentences of four to 15 years in prison.

Olujic is also being charged with two other felonies.

His second count is a class four felony for unlawful delivery of 10 to 30 grams of cannabis Aug. 7. Class four felonies may carry sentences of one to three years in prison.

Olujic's third count is a class three felony of unlawful delivery of diazepam. Class three felonies may carry sentences of two to five years in prison.

All felony convictions may also include fines up to $10,000.

Republicans lose Senate; Democrats pick up seats

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole conceded late Tuesday that the Democrats would win control of the U.S. Senate.

Asked whether the Democrats would win a majority, he said, "Oh yeah, it's a question of whether it will be 53 or 55" Democrats.

"It could be 55-45 or 53-47. We just lost a couple," said a dejected Dole.

As for a possible new direction for the Senate under the Democrats, Dole said, "I think it's up to Sen. (Robert C.) Byrd to make that judgment."

Byrd, D-W. Va., currently the minority leader, earlier had predicted time in six years and that he would become majority leader.

At 11 p.m., the national picture looked like this:

Democrats had won 10 Senate seats, including two held by Republicans. They led for another six, including five held by Republicans.

Republicans won 10, none held by Democrats, and were leading for six others, including two held by Democrats.

Democrats won nine governorships, including one held by a Republican. They were leading for 10 more, including two held by the GOP.

Republicans won five seats, including three held by the Democrats. They were leading in eight, including two held by Democrats.

Republican Christopher Bond won the race to fill Missouri's Senate seat being vacated by a Democrat. The only vulnerable Democrat incumbent, Alan Cranston, was projected as the winner in California by ABC even before the polls were closed.

Rep. Barbara Mikulski won handily in Maryland's two-woman race, picking up a seat vacated by a retiring Republican.

The ranks of Democratic senators winning new terms ran to Wendell Ford in Kentucky; Ernest Hollings in South Carolina; Christopher Dodd in Connecticut; Alan Dixon in Illinois; Patrick Leahy in Vermont; John Glenn in Ohio and Dale Bumpers in Arkansas.

Republican incumbents re-elected included Bob Packwood of Oregon, Dan Quayle in Indiana and Warren Rudman in New Hampshire, as well as Dole, Charles Grassley of Iowa, Al D'Amato of New York and Arlen Specter of Pennsylvania. Republican Sen. Don Nickles won in Oklahoma.

them to do it (revoke the charter)."

Hextell said he heard the fraternity's charter had been revoked from a Decatur newspaper earlier in the day.

Eastern President Stanley Rives said in the statement, "The university obviously does not condone such activity and our actions today are intended to communicate that message quite clearly to all concerned."

The charges follow the "Pimp and Whore" party between the fraternity and the Sigma Kappa sorority. At the party, a 21-year-old sorority member had been handcuffed to a stairwell for several hours while nude.

Former Eastern junior Clark Schnepfer has been charged with battery following the incident.

The fraternity received several sanctions from the Student Activities Board Oct. 8. These included: no parties at the Phi Sigma Kappa house and no alcohol served at any Phi Sigma Kappa party.

On Oct. 16 the sorority received fewer sanctions from the university.

"Clark (Schnepfer) is gone, we are left," Hextell said. "We were the scapegoat."

Phi Sigma Kappa Social Chairman, who wanted to remain anonymous, said the Sigma Kappa social chairman mentioned that the sorority wanted to hold a "Pimp and Whore" theme function with the fraternity.

Responding to accusations that she initiated the party, Penny Huber, Sigma Kappa social chairman, said, "I'm sorry I have no comment."

The social chair who wanted to remain anonymous said, "I had never heard of it ("Pimp and Whore" theme) before." The members of the fraternity dressed in suits while the members of Sigma Kappa sorority dressed "like whores," the source said.

Polovina also said the sorority has failed to pay the fraternity approximately $50 for the party. He noted that during typical greek functions, the fraternity and sorority involved split the costs involved.

"What happened was sick," Hextell said. "I don't think anybody is glad it happened."

The fraternity members said they plan to remain in their house, 1504 S. Second St. "The national chapter has no say who lives in the house," Polovina said.

Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity member Bob Beyer said, "We played by the rules for the month," he said. "They (the university) gave us a glimmer of hope, then they yanked it away. It's sick."

Williams said, "All directly involved have been disciplined."

Export Council offers program to eligible business students

By JENNIFER LOFTUS
Staff writer

The Illinois Export Council is currently offering the Export Development Internship Program to seniors and graduate students in Eastern's College of Business.

The program is offered to students who are particularly interested in international business.

Ted Ivarie, dean of Eastern's College of Business, said a student must have a grade point average of 3.0 to apply for the internship. Those applying are also required to write papers on the impact of international trade in today's society and provide their resumes.

Students interested in this program must fill out an application in Ivarie's office in room 109 at Blair Hall. The application deadline is Friday.

Last year's intern, Randy Stearns, was the first student from Eastern to participate in the program, Ivarie said. Stearns was sent to the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs in Chicago for a six-month internship.

Stearns was chosen among four other students to represent schools in Illinois. Lt. Gov. George Ryan made the final selection in cooperation with Ivarie when choosing Stearns for the program.

During Stearns' internship, he worked at the office in charge of scheduling appointments for Gov. James Thompson's trip to Japan and Korea.

Stearns said the program went along with his future plans because he eventually wants to get into international marketing.

The departments and agencies for intern placement include the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs, the International Business Division, the Department of Agriculture's International Business Division, the Illinois Export Development Authority and the Illinois Export Council.

The internship program pays a salary and the credit hours are determined by the university, Ivarie said. In addition, a paper must be submitted to the export council at the end of the internship.

'Magician' zaps Eastern

By CRAIG EDWARDS
Assistant staff editor

He has been called a comedy monster, new-wave comic and magician.

Comedian Rich Purpura will bring his show to Eastern with an 8 p.m. performance Wednesday in the Subway.

"He has been performing on campuses for two and a half years," said Anita Craig, director of student activities. "He has also toured extensively in Europe," she added.

Purpura performed at a conference for student activity organizers last year. Craig said although his performance at the conference was short, he was very funny.

The UB and the Subway are presenting a high concentration of comedy acts this semester. Craig said because Purpura presents a quality comic production, his performance will fit in well.

Craig said Purpura's Wednesday night performance is part of a comedy-jazz connection scheduled by UB. Also performing this week will be David Goldflies' Duos, a progressive jazz-rock band. Duos is scheduled to perform at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Subway.

Seminar set for breaking habit

By KRISTI WELLS
Staff writer

Smokers will have the opportunity to kick the habit by attending a Life Skills Seminar sponsored by the Counseling Center at noon Wednesday in the Union addition Arcola Room.

Robert "Skip" Valois, from the department of health services, will lead the seminar, "Smoking: How to Stop."

Valois said a person can quit smoking on his own or by hypnotism, which can be very costly. Other information to be discussed at the workshop includes: support programs, the expense of quitting techniques and why hypnotism is not effective.

Freshman Dan Barrett exits a voting booth at the Student Union polling place Tuesday. Because only 400 of Eastern's 10,000 students voted in the last election, the Student Senate actively solicited student voters this week by phoning students and distributing leaflets.

Senate ponders request for support of fee increase

By ERIC WEDEKING
Staff writer

The Student Senate may voice its support of the proposed Nov. 12 fee increase if it passes a resolution at Wednesday's meeting.

Senate Speaker Joe O'Mera said the executive officers will present a resolution to the senate voicing their support of the proposed $4.75 student activity fee increase.

The proposed increase will be on the Nov. 12 student government election.

The senate will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Union addition Arcola-Tuscola Room.

The senate also plans to form lobbying committees to drum up student support in favor of the proposal, O'Mera said.

The lobbying committees will examine ways of gaining student support before the Nov. 12 election.

O'Mera said he will report on the effect of the student voter registration drive that preceded Tuesday's elections.

Senator Tim Taylor, student elections chairman, said he will discuss new election procedures.

Taylor said 20 candidates will be running for senate seats.

There are seven candidates running for seven at-large seats, six candidates for five off-campus seats and seven candidates for five residence hall seats.

didn't give it their best. This year everyone is giving it all they've got," Conover said.

As team captain, Conover has been organizing team meetings with co-captain junior Tim Schnittker to learn each other's abilities and get a general idea of where everyone stands as an individual.

Freshman breast stroke swimmer John Ryan, from University High School in Normal, swam a better time than any swimmer in the 100-yard breast stroke last season with a 1:01 time trial.

Ryan said he is happy with his time trial, but he has not improved in the event much since his junior year in high school.

Ryan, who placed tenth in the 100-yard breast stroke at the IHSA swimming championships last year, said he is pleased with his time trial though. "It is the first time I have gone this fast this early in the season," Ryan said.

If there is one area that the men's team has the most depth in, it is the breast stroke.

Padovan said there are a lot of members competing for a spot in the event. "It will be a hard one to crack into," Padovan said. Besides Ryan, the team has the abilities of breast stroke swimmers Scott Ebinger, Bill Salentine, Matt Schmitz and Schnittker.

The women's team has depth in all events this year, Padovan said.

Freshman Elizabeth Curvey from Homewood-Flossmor High School and Betsy Watkins will take over the backstroke events, and they show promise of doing quite well this season, Padovan said.

Padovan said Curvey has been swimming the 100-yard backstroke in about 1:07, and this is only a few seconds off the time of Sheila Mulrone, who graduated from the team last season.

The women also have depth in the butterfly. Becky Zuckowski, a transfer student from Harper College, will be the main force in that event.

Ann Body will be swimming breast stroke. She swam a 1:14 in the time trials.

"I am looking forward to the season," Body said. "I am right where I finished last year, and I feel pretty confident."

Since Body is the only breast stroke swimmer on the women's team, she said she finds it difficult because there is no one else to pace her. Sometimes she swims with the men breast stroke swimmers so she knows how well she is swimming, she said.

Bowl deadline set

Wednesday is the final day to sign up for the Trivia Bowl sponsored by Eastern's Recreational Sports Department.

The Trivia Bowl, in its first year, is operated on a football game format with the ball being advanced by answering sports trivia questions.

Sign up sheets and rules are available in the Recreational Sports office located in Lantz Gym. Championship T-shirts will awarded to winners of the contest.

Tankers look forward to successful season

By JOE LEWNARD
Staff writer

Eastern's swim team has been quite promising in early season time trials and may be on their way to a successful year.

Since going to Division I in 1982, Eastern's swim team has had disappointing seasons compared to the power teams they had in the past.

Last season was no exception when the men finished seventh in the Midwest Championships and the women finished ninth.

Eastern coach Ray Padovan said he is pleased with the time trials, and if they are any indication toward the outcome of the season, this year's team will be vastly improved.

The swimmers, who have been practicing since September, look to be ready for their first meet against Vincennes on Saturday.

The men's team has shown improvement in two events already.

Junior Gary Urban swam the 100-yard backstroke in 57 seconds during time trials. That time is faster than any posted by an Eastern backstroke swimmer at the end of last season.

Urban said that his goal for the season is to swim the 100 in 52.5 seconds, which would be a school record. Urban said the present record is 53.63.

Urban has had some difficulty adjusting to the 200-yard backstroke because he is used to the 100, but he said Padovan has been helping him with the adjustment.

"Ray has been working with me on the 200, and swimming it can only help me get better and better," Urban said.

Padovan said senior Scott Conover, a distance freestyle swimmer and team captain, has had the best time trials ever for this early in the season.

Conover said he has been feeling strong, and added that he worked out during the summer.

He said that during summer workouts he had more time to work on his sprinting ability and his stroke technique.

"We have been busting our tails for five weeks now, and we are ready to tear some people up," Conover said.

Conover said this year's team should be better than last year's. "Last year there were people who worked out really hard, and there were some that Stop that Mustang!

Midfielder Matt Gamache (7), assisted by fullback Roger Gusloff (3), tries to get the ball away from Gerry Graham (14) of Southern Methodist University Friday at Lakeside Field. The Mustangs defeated the Panthers 2-0. The Panthers hit road as they take on the Badgers of University of Wisconsin-Madison on Saturday.

Panthers hold 2 distinctive records in NCAA

With quarterback Sean Payton breaking into the top 10 of the NCAA career passing leaders, Eastern holds a rare distinction in college football history.

The Panthers are the only team in the country to have players ranked on both the top 10 career passing and rushing lists.

Payton, who reached the 10,000-yard mark last Saturday, is seventh among the all-time passing leaders. Moreover, with two regular-season games still remaining, Payton could conceivably move up as high as the No. 3 position.

As for the rushing portion of the Eastern legacy, Chris "Poke" Cobb ranks No. 7 on the all-time NCAA rushing list.

Cobb rolled up 5,042 yards in his Panther career which spanned from 1976-79. Cobb's career yardage is tops in Division-II history.

Eight straight

Eastern equaled its longest winning streak at the I-AA level with Saturday's win.

The Panthers have won eight straight games to match the string put together by the 1982 team that reached the I-AA quarterfinals.

Next on the Panther list is the 10 consecutive wins by the 1980 squad that gained runner-up honors at the Division-II level.

The Eastern record for consecutive victories is 13, accomplished between the 1978 and '79 teams.

That streak was snapped Oct. 6, 1979, by Western Illinois 10-7 at O'Brien Stadium in a game regionally televised by ABC-TV.

Back on track

Running back DuWayne Pitts appears to have returned to top form following an ankle injury judging from his performance Saturday against Winona State.

Pitts rushed for 94 yards on 12 carries and scored two touchdowns in the Panthers' 64-0 victory. Pitts last season's leading rusher and pass receiver, also had a 39-yard run.

"It's been a slow season with my injury," Pitts said. "It's really affected my whole season. It felt good to get out and contribute."

With Saturday's output, Pitts raised his season rushing total to 383 yards on 75 attempts. Sophomore James Marable, recently bothered by a shoulder ailment, leads the team with 537 yards on 127 carries.

Time reminder

Fans attending Saturday's Eastern game at Indiana State are reminded that Terre Haute is one hour ahead of Charleston because of a difference in time zones.

Game time is 12:30 CST at Indiana State Memorial Stadium.

White Sox in Hoosier state?

CHICAGO (AP)—A 40 percent increase in season-ticket sales is among the incentives an Indiana official promised the Chicago White Sox on Tuesday in trying to lure them to the Hoosier state.

Indiana Lt. Gov. John Mutz, who also heads the state's commerce department, said he is negotiating with six possible sites for a White Sox stadium in the three-county Duneland area—Lake, Porter and La Porte.

He said the sites were all within 30 miles of Comiskey Park, the South Side stadium where the White Sox have played since 1910, but he declined to identify them.

"The state line doesn't make a whole lot of difference" since the proposed sites are in the same television market as Chicago's, Mutz said at a Chicago news conference. "The (TV) market area is what's important to professional franchises."

The White Sox have been wooing Addison-area fans with a proposed 45,000-seat stadium in their back yards, and voters there were asked to voice opinions about the stadium in an advisory city referendum on Tuesday.

If the team moved to Indiana, Mutz said he could guarantee a 40 percent increase in season-ticket sales for a period of five years. He said he is negotiating to get a working capital loan at below market interest rates.

Also, through his position as head of the commerce department, Mutz said he could arrange "substantial financial assistance" for public works projects in the area that would serve a potential stadium.

All the potential sites are easily accessible by interstate highways and several by the Chicago South Shore commuter train line, Mutz said.

An advertisement pitching his plan appeared in Tuesday's Chicago Tribune.
